Awards presented at FGM

A total of 87 awards were presented to deserving junior and senior high school students for their achievements during the 1988-89 school year, at the annual F. G. Miller Awards Night, Friday, September 29.

A large share of the awards went to 1989 graduate Anthony Bayduza, whose mother accepted an armload of plaques and awards on his behalf. Bayduza qualified for the Governor General's Bronze Medal, for the highest academic standing in Grade 12, the County of St. Paul High Academic Standing award, individual Grade 12 subject awards jointly sponsored by the Elk Point Pioneer Circle and Mrs. Grace Franks in Social Studies 30, Biology 30 and Chemistry 30, as well as the Kates Memorial Award, which is presented annually to the top Grade 12 student by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kates in memory of their son, Sidney. He was also one of three Grade 12 students, along with Angel Ference and Kelly Curry, to receive an Academic Honors award sponsored by Pan Canadian Petroleum.

Tracy Oryshchuk was presented with the Grade 12 Honor Roll award, sponsored by Single Styles, while Jayme Pelech was presented by the Golden Loaf Bakery award for Honorable Mention. Miss Pelech also received the English 30 award from the Pioneer Circle and Grace Franks, while the English 33 award went to Glen Scott and the Math 30 and Physics 30 awards to Christoph Ludlage.

Dr. K. C. Miller was on hand to present his annual award to the Best All Around Student, which is given to the student who contributes the most to the school. This year's recipient is David Hellquist. Dr. Miller also presented the award to the top Grade 12 Diploma Program student, Maria Antonio.

Dr. Bruce Kleeberger was also at Awards Night, to present his annual Citizenship Award for involvement in and unselfish devotion to community affairs, which went this year to Jacqueline Gulayec.

This year's Vogel Achievement Award, established by Ed and Ruth Vogel to honor the student who has shown the greatest improvement in attitude and academic standing over the school year, went to Doug Zaraska. Cont. on Page 16

Depressed Oil Economy

Elk Point's 'nose above water'

By Clare Gauvreau
Staff Writer

ELK POINT - Alberta's oil sector is again in a slump with little optimism for recovery in the near future. For communities like Elk Point, which have experienced the industry's boom times, the effects of a depressed oil economy are being felt.

"Elk Point did become increasingly dependent on the industry after oil development came to Elk Point 10 years ago," Vicki Brooker, president of the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce, told the Journal.

While the farming community still plays a major role in the town's economy, things have changed somewhat since the oil industry came to town. There is only one used machinery dealer, a couple of parts stores and three bulk fuel dealers. There was a gradual shift in the businesses away from agriculture and

Minor Hockey looking ahead

Elk Point Minor Hockey is looking ahead to a busy and successful season, following last Thursday's well-attended Organizational Meeting.

The group, along with Figure Skating and the Agricultural Society, is getting right down to business, with registrations for the 1989-90 season set for tomorrow evening, 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. at the A. G. Ross Arena.

Dave Kenyon will be serving the second year of his two-year term as Minor Hockey President, with Art Lypka as the new Vice President, Louise Kurash as Secretary and Diana Anderson as Treasurer. A full slate of directors completes the executive for this year.

Minor Hockey spokesman and Ag Society President Glen Harms says the group has 'climbed through a very difficult few months' to start the new season with 'everyone happy and keyed up.' The group has converted from an association to a society, and has a whole list of projects in mind. 'There are a lot of things to be done in the arena,' Harms said, 'and Minor Hockey wants to be a part of them.'

towards servicing the oil industry, Brooker said.

"But not enough left to service the agricultural sector. Regrettably, we no longer serve all the needs of the farmers, who now have to go to St. Paul and Vermilion to meet their needs."

Meanwhile, Mayor Bruce Kleeberger is quick to object to any speculation that the oil industry has become the backbone of the community.

"The oil industry is not the basis of our economy," Kleeberger stressed.

"Currently the oil industry is on hold for very much future development. Agriculture will always play an important role."

Oil industry spokesmen hold out little hope for a turnaround in the near future. "Cautious optimism" are the two words heard most often around the oil patch these days.

Companies with interests in the Elk Point area say they'll maintain their present levels of operations in the Lindbergh oil field, but have no plans to increase their activity there.

"We're trying to maintain production levels and keep our costs as low as possible," Allan Frankiw of Westmin Resources said.

"I don't think things are going to get much better in the next couple of years."

Bill Jennissen of Pan Canadian described the level of activity in the oil patch as "pretty dead" throughout the entire province.

The impact of the industry slowdown is very much apparent in the Elk Point real estate market.

"There's more houses available and more vacant rental properties than there has been in the 15 years I've been here," Larry Demchuk of Elk Point Insurance and Realty said.

"It's pretty much a buyer's market. Prices have come down to some extent.

But, Demchuk hastened to say it's "not a panic situation".

"It's not a situation where we want to point at the oil industry and say you created a boom. It was naive to believe we would have that level of development continue.

"It's not all pessimistic. Elk Point is a vibrant and lively community and I'm sure things will turn around."

Town administrator Pat

Vincent said the depressed oil economy has negatively impacted the community but not to the same extent as Bonnyville and Lloydminster.

The town's employment demographics show fully one third of the work force is employed in the resource sector (gas, mining and oil).

"We're pretty heavily dependent on that one sector but agriculture plays an important role in the community."

Elk Point's population has increased by 35 per cent to 1,391 residents over the last eight years. While the rate of growth has slowed, the numbers are being maintained.

"We're keeping our nose above water," he said.

Twenty-five Years of Teaching
Les Ewart of Racette, Louise Larson of Elk Point Elementary, and John Pilipchuk of St. Paul Regional, were honored with gold pins for 25 years of teaching service at the St. Paul ATA retirement and induction ceremony held on Friday evening at the Regional School.

Larson honored at ATA banquet

Staff Writer

"Each day of happiness today, is just a memory tomorrow," Adeline Mallon told over 250 teachers and guests at the St. Paul Alberta Teachers Association (ATA) Induction Banquet held Friday evening at the Regional School after a banquet.

Mallon, one of the six retiring teachers from the area, told the crowd that communication is the key to success, whether used in teaching, in talking to parents, or with the school board.

"This is the harvest season of our lives. According to Browning, 'come, grow old with me, the best is yet to be,' and that is my wish for all the retirees," Mallon said.

Mallon retired after 35 years of teaching. She will be missed by the Grade 5 students at St. Paul Elementary.

Lily McCool, who retired from St. Paul Regional after 37, years spoke on the many changes during her teaching career. She remembers the days when she taught at St. Brides, traveling by either walking, or on her father's tractor. She said she remembers how she had to learn the different customs of different people, even though she was only 30 miles from home, everything was different.

"Fountain pens were a great improvement over pens with nibs, but ballpoints with their smearing ink were not allowed. They would never last," McCool said.

Mrs. Therese Viel who retired from the Ecole Mallaig Community School after 34 years wished that the inductees find teaching as rewarding as she has.

"The road is not always easy. Sometimes, try as you might, a pupil is just not interested in learning, but the positive will always outweigh the negative," she said.

Armand Laing, who retired after 33 years, said that teaching is a noble profession and that students were his life and the reason he became a teacher.

George Parrott, who retired from Ashmont Secondary, and Bill Danyluk from Racette were unable to attend the ceremonies.

Three teachers, John Pilipchuk from St. Paul Regional, Louise Larson of Elk Point Elementary and Les Ewart from Racette where given gold pins for 25 years of teaching.

A special address was given by Sandra Weidner, President of the Alberta School Trustees Association, who spoke on the importance of teachers and trustees working together.

"We are going to have to learn new skills, and learn to plan, respond and communicate as we have never done before," Weidner said.

"Our world in the 90's is going to be way different than it is now. Our schools have tried to be all things for all reasons, - not because we wanted to, but because we had to. We have to provide for every child's needs in Alberta, from physical, medical to educational.

"With only 27 per cent of our taxpayers in Alberta having children in schools, financially the burden falls on all and because they are mad at us if we do, mad at us if we don't and won't give us the money to do things, no one wants to be a school trustee."

"The job of teaching is a stressful one, with over 180 teachers in our province having to go on long-term disability this past year," she added. She urged teachers to work with the trustees and make big strides in bringing about positive changes.

Larry Lambert, president of the ATA, introduced the 17 new teaching inductees, and presented them with pins and packets. They are: Ashmont Secondary - Zyna Najnaddin and Marc Lavasseur; Ashmont Elementary - Ralph Sorochan; Elk Point Elementary - Heather Gillespie and Sandra Ockerman; F. G. Miller High School, Henri Joly and Glenda Brandingen; Glen Avon - Udo Mueller; Heinsburg - Julian Pocholik, Cassandra Watson, and Tim Turko; Mallaig - Jocelyn Larrivee; Racette School - JoAnne Jackson and Anne Cote; St. Paul Elementary - Tonia Godin and Daniel Trahan; St. Paul Regional School - Bob Palinka.

Following the meeting was a dance.

Seniors get federal funds

An Elk Point seniors group will receive a $1,905 federal New Horizons Program grant, Health and Welfare Minister Perrin Beatty recently announced.

The Buckingham Senior Citizens Club will use the grant to develop a new program of activities at its residence complex. The seniors will hold social gatherings and reinstate pool tournaments as part of their recreational activities.

New Horizons is a Health and Welfare program which provides contributions to groups of senior citizens who initiate activities for the benefit of themselves and others in the community. Since its inception in 1972, the program has provided contributions totaling $13,306,016 to 2,095 groups in Alberta.

Give thanks for families

This first week of the golden month of October, in the final days of harvest and leading up to Thanksgiving Day, is National Family Week, a period set aside for us to contemplate the value of this vital and valuable natural resource.

Families are not something we often give much thought to. Most of us are born into one, and learn to live within the circle of parental care and guidance, sibling affection and rivalry, and quite possibly the extended family group of grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins. When we grow up and marry, we join another family to our own, and become a part of their celebrations and customs as well.

Families are a source of pride, support, love, shared experiences and accomplishments. They offer each member a nurturing environment in which to grow and thrive, and are a stable haven in a world which sometimes seems cold, impersonal and uncaring.

At least, that's how it should be.

Today's world has among its population many people who are not a part of the traditional family unit. There are individuals who were abandoned at birth, people who have left their homes because of unreconcilable differences, people whose family lives have been shattered by death, divorce, disease, crime, poverty and other factors. Sometimes these people are able to reestablish a family-type relationship with others, sometimes they prefer to remain alone, in fear that they could lose again.

Then there are those who live in family units, but in family units where violence and destructive behavior such as alcoholism or drug dependency has made the home anything but a loving haven. Instead, home and family become a peril to escape from with what remains of one's life.

There is help for those in such predicaments. Such agencies as Family and Community Support Services and Social Services, groups such as AADAC, Crisis Centres, Alcoholics Anonymous, the Salvation Army, the John Howard Society, Parents Without Partners, and various church groups offer assistance to those with various needs in getting their lives back together and on the right track. It is a hard thing to ask for help, and many are reluctant to do so, but sometimes it is the only way to take that first step back to a normal way of life.

Sometimes it takes far less than that to make a life whole again. Sometimes it only takes someone to say, 'I was wrong, and I'm sorry,' to bring a loved one back into their life. Sometimes it takes the admission that one needs the help of experts to resume a healthy relationship. Sometimes it takes soul searching into what really went wrong, and how a rift can be repaired.

Sometimes it only takes love, and love is what families are all about.

Let us be especially thankful for the love of our families, this Family Week, and this Thanksgiving.

Far From Alberta Trails

A glimpse of Kansas

By Irene Magnusson

So, why would anyone take off to Kansas, a far southern state, in what could be mid-summer there, when they could be at home in Alberta enjoying the glorious changing colors of fall? I found that a harder question to answer as the day came to leave—but once you're packed and ready—you just go. My last day, trying not to overlook anything vital, was hectic, as anyone's is.

My reason for going is I have a brother and his wife in far-off Kansas, in Wichita to be exact. Our youngest brother, Edison—we call him Eddy—he has made his way home to Elk Point now and then but we—not one of the other dozen of us—have been to visit, to see the niche he has carved for himself in that far, far spot, where he and his family have lived for around 25 years.

'The time has come!' this Walrus said, and so last spring I started laying plans. First, determining that they would, indeed, welcome us, I spent letters and phone calls convincing my B. C. sister, Virginia, to accompany me, and so the steps went, with Rilla Higgins mapping a flight path across the many miles, our bags packed, wallets full of travellers' cheques—the works. We met in Edmonton, left at 6 a.m. on the wings of a Delta jet, and as day dawned, watched the shadows carve the shapes of mountains far below.

Our first stop and change of planes was at Salt Lake City, Utah, which we saw first, as we lowered through light clouds, as a vast expanse of greenish water, extending out of our view. Soon we saw points of land, lined with what appeared to be dikes or dams in large semicircles. These, we concluded, must be to collect the salt this lake is famous for. Later, a fellow passenger told us these enclosures were made to catch fresh water—rain, snow melt—so the town has fresh water to use, uncontaminated by the pervading salt. Seemed reasonable.

After an hour or so, we were entering another Delta, this one completely packed, and found ourselves sitting next to an engineer, from Anchorage, Alaska, who is also a photographer, off to take promotional photos for his company. He was willing to talk, and we to listen, so learned a few things about Alaska, and Texas (his home state), and told him the story of our lives and of Alberta and B. C. An enjoyable few hours, since we only saw land briefly, a desolate, bare view, with what appeared to be an empty river bed zig-zagging through (or else with mud-colored water), which our seat-mate Tim said could be the Colorado River. Clouds obstructed all eye contact with the earth after that, until we broke through and landed in Dallas-Fort Worth, Texas, for our final change of planes.

Since we landed late, it wasn't a long wait, then onto the smaller aircraft which would carry us to Wichita. I must say that much of our time while aloft was taken up with eating. We had already been exposed to—and accepted—three meals by our 2:30 p.m. landing in Wichita. All very good, according to me.

It was a real pleasure to see our brother Eddy, and Shirley as well, waiting for us. Very shortly we had our luggage and were in their car, heading across Wichita to their home. Their very lovely home! Set in a quiet residential area, overhung with huge leafy shade trees, and cosily furnished, it is much as I had expected.

Like most of my brothers, Ed loves wood and they both delight in 'old' things, so they have furnished with many antiques, which they have refinished, the house itself skilfully adjusted to their own needs. Virginia and I are being spoiled and pampered.

The first couple of days were cool and showery, but sunny and warm since. Kansas, we learn, boasts an almost daily breeze, so unless we stand in the sun too long, it has been quite comfortable. I find the countryside very similar in appearance to Alberta, say around Edmonton, or in the Peace country, very flat, large fields, with a few more trees in the fencerows, perhaps.

The crops we see standing just now are mainly sorghum, with some corn, a few sunflower fields, and large tracts just now being seeded to winter wheat. This has been delayed, due to excessive rainfall, they say—even some flooding. There are some cattle visible, and lots of pigs (not visible). And more I'll tell you next week.

Letter to the Editor

Defence of Anti-clawback advocates

Dear Editor:

People protesting the proposal tax back Old Age Security and Family Allowance Payments for those with taxable income over $50,000 do so for the following reasons.

1. It destroys universality. Universality of social programs contributes to a sense of community solidarity as everyone is treated the same, thus avoiding unnecessary diversions between the poor and the rich or the young and the old. Universality maintains the dignity of the individual and is less costly to administer. Old Age Security has been a universal program since 1952.
2. It establishes an unfair tax system.

It establishes a precedent by taxing according to source of income and discriminates on the basis of age and marital status. Persons younger than age 65 with a taxable income of $50,000 will pay less tax than those age 65 and over. The same result could have been achieved by raising the marginal tax rate by 1% for those with high taxable income.

3. It deprives seniors of Old Age Security that they consider to be a right.

On January 1, 1952, by statute the present Old Age Security Plan came into being. Since then, all persons paying income tax have contributed to the Old Age Security Fund. Old Age Security was financed by means tax on personal income, originally subject to a maximum of $30 per year at 1% or taxable income, later increased to $60 at 2% in 1953, to $90 at 3% in 1961 and $120 at 4% in 1964. In 1971 the Old Age Security Act was amended and specific payments, as previously recorded in income tax forms were discontinued, however, the Minister of Revenue of the day was required to credit the Old Age Security Fund "an amount equal, in the opinion of the Minister or National Revenue, to the net amount that would have been collected in that year, before time of crediting, from taxes that would have been payable under Section 24 of this Act as it read on July 15, 1971.

Old Age Security payments are not a welfare handout.

4. It erodes trust in Government. The Prime Minister has repeatedly stated that the Government would protect the integrity of universality in the country, that social benefits, particularly for the elderly would be improved not diminished. Members of cabinet, Michael Wilson, Perron Beatty, Monique Vzera and others state that universality is being maintained. At the same time Don Blenhorn has been quoted as saying "We have decided to eliminate universality and we do that in a sense by the clawback in both family allowance and the old age pension."

The present Government has been attempting to deceive Canadians and therefore cannot be trusted.

If you are concerned about the future of social programs in Canada please let the Prime Minister and your Member of Parliament know.

NEW EQUINE VIDEOS IN FILM LIBRARY

Alberta Agriculture has added three videos produced by the American Quarter Horse Association to its Film Library. "Form to Function: The Importance of Conformation" (460-07 VT) is an 11-minute video examining the beauty, balance and symmetry of a horse. Conformation coupled with a competitive drive and willing spirit make a superior athlete. In "Western Riding-A Competitive Edge" (462-47 VT), expert horse trainer Peter Kyle, of Scottsdale, Arizona offers tips on competitive Western riding. The video runs 26 minutes. The third video is about the American Quarter Horse and offers advice on buying a horse. "For You-An American Quarter Horse" (462-48 VT) covers the steps in deciding to purchase a horse in a 26-minute presentation. To book the videos, contact the Alberta Agriculture Film Library at 7000-113 Street, Edmonton, Alberta T6H 5T6 and quote the video number.

STORING GERANIUMS OVER WINTER

Geraniums can be easily overwintered indoors from one year to the next says an Alberta Agriculture horticulturist. "Because these annual flowers are tender, they should be dug up before the first heavy frost," says Pam North. If they can't be dug before a heavy frost, cover them. Plants should be placed close together in a box or other containers. Cover the roots with a light plotting soil or a mixture of peat moss and vermiculite or peat moss and perlite. Cut back the plants severely so only branch stubs remain. Place them in a cool, dark location at a temperature of between four and seven degrees Celcius. Water the soil when they are first stored. During the winter, water them only enough to prevent the plant from shrivelling. Allow the soil to dry out completely between waterings. The plants can be brought out of storage in February and potted in individual containers in high quality potting soil and put in a sunny window, preferably a southern exposure. "If you want cuttings from the plants, bring them up in January," she notes. This is also a good method for overwintering fuchsias, she adds. For more information, contact North at the Alberta Tree Nursery and Horticultural Centre at 472-6043.

Controlling winter annual weeds

Erosion control and moisture conservation through maintaining stubble cover are becoming very important in farming today.

In this context the idea of fall spraying or tillage of winter annuals has come up. Perhaps the first question is; what is a winter annual weed? Winter annual weed seeds do not readily germinate in the summer months because of high soil temperatures. As the cooler days of fall lower soil temperatures, winter annuals germinate and grow over winter as small plants and begin rapid growth in the spring. Seed is produced by mid-summer and the cycle begins again.

In our area the main winter annuals are stinkweed, marrowleaf hawksbeard and shepherds purse. Because of their growth characteristics it is easier to control these plants in the fall by either spraying or tillage, than it is to allow them to overwinter. These plants become "hardened" over winter and are much harder to control.

Fall spraying can be an attractive alternative to cultivation for several reasons:

- 1) Spraying protects against wind and water erosion and offers the opportunity for trapping snow.
- 2) Overcomes the possibility of losing soil moisture by a late fall tillage operation and by early weed growth in the spring.
- 3) The growth of weeds in the spring is delayed so summerfallow tillage need not be started until probably mid June. This eliminates having to work summerfallow during seeding time.

4) It eliminates 1-2 tillage operations in the spring on summerfallow. This is combined with a good weed kill when tillage is commenced because of smaller weed size.

5) Allows weed control in areas prone to being wet in spring.

6) Fall tillage of winter annuals when the soil is moist may give limited plant kill and really only transfer the plants from one spot to another.

One advantage that may be on the side of fall tillage is that it may promote the germination of summer annuals which will be killed over winter. However this possible advantage is outweighed by the advantage of fall spraying.

2-4D and MCPA may be used to fall spray winter annuals. These chemicals can be applied till freeze-up. These winter annual weeds do not stop growth with frost as do annuals and most perennials. Application is best done on warm sunny days.

Each farmer must look at his own situation. How big a problem are winter annuals in your field? Is soil erosion a problem? How important is moisture conservation to your cropping plans? Consider these questions carefully, it might be that fall chemical control of winter annuals should be part of your farm plan.

If you're interested in trying fall control of winter annuals with chemicals give me a call at 657-3311. We're looking for some demonstration sites this fall.

John Williams Seeks Re-Election in the Elk Point Municipal Hospital District Ward 7

Which is in the town of Elk Point.

The hospital projects I have been involved in have been numerous and complicated and I list some of our accomplishments.

1. The Nursing Home project was first approved in April, 1986. The third stage, Block Schematics, is complete and awaits Government approval. Yet to be completed are the drawings and construction (2 1/2 to 3 years).
2. A Handi-Van was purchased for the use of disabled and wheelchair patients.
3. The hospital received a 3-year accreditation in 1987. Many thanks to the hospital staff for this accomplishment.
4. Additional funds were acquired for our 30-bed long-term facility.
5. Hospital ventilation upgrading was completed at a cost of $365,800.
6. In 1987-88 the hospital budget was cut by 3%. However a balanced budget was maintained (slight surplus) with no cuts to staff and no bed closures.
7. In 1988 a long-term service award and a retirement policy was implemented for hospital staff (none existed before).
8. A code of conduct for board members was adopted by the board in June, 1989, revised, and unanimously approved in September 1989.
9. In spite of the 3% cut-back the Board spent about $146,000 on new and modern equipment for the hospital.

I have the time, the experience, and the knowledge to carry on this work for the betterment of our community. Your support for my re-election will be very much appreciated.

International Lions' day

Thursday, October 8, is the day set aside by Lions Clubs all over the world to celebrate the founding of their club and reinstate their commitment to service in the community.

Eight years after its inception in 1917, the International Lions Convention of 1925 had Helen Keller as a guest speaker. She challenged the group to become 'knights of the blind in the crusade against darkness.' Her inspiration has led the group over the years to evolve the white cane service, to raise funds for eye banks and research, and to contribute to life-changing eye operations for people in developing countries. Their annual Journey For Sight raises funds for these ongoing projects, which also include providing guide dogs for the blind.

The Elk Point Lions Club has chosen the Boy Scouts as their local group for special sponsorship and in this capacity have provided funding for them on an ongoing basis. Another local project that has received their commitment is the Swim Program at Whitney Lake.

Last year, the Elk Point Lions Club, led by President Ron Johnson, raised, in addition to their regular contributions, $8000 towards the ball diamonds, sponsored the Child ID program, contributed to Cancer Research, as well as providing funds for many local non-profit groups.

This year, under President Doug Bassett, the Elk Point Lions have embraced as their major project, fund raising toward the construction of a new multi-purpose Community Services Building. Watch for the Lions Hockey Tournament and the Christmas Card program coming up soon.

Fundraising goal near

By Lori Irvine and Barbara Naber

Another improvement for the F. G. Miller High School! We are approaching our goal of getting new glass backboards. At the onset of our endeavor, ten thousand dollars seemed impossible, but thanks to all our sponsors, this task is being made easier.

Our Shoot-A-Thon was a huge success. We are collecting an approximate total of two thousand dollars. A big thanks to all the organizers. We appreciate the organizational skills of the executive. Jim Hawkins, Ray Danyluk, Shannon Capjack, Barbara Naber and Lori Irvine, and Mrs. Connie Capjack for her treasury assistance. We would especially like to thank the County of St. Paul for giving one quarter of what had to be raised. The participation of most of the basketball players is also appreciated.

Thanks to the following businesses and organizations: Royal Purple, Elks Lodge, Dave's Pizza, Amoco, E-Can, Windsor Salt, Vermilion UFA, Elk Point Oilmen's Association, Elk Point UFA, Elk Point 4-H, and the Elk Point Pacers.

Elks looking for players

The Elk Point Elks Senior Hockey Club has reorganized for the upcoming season, and are looking for players, management personnel and directors. Tim Kubista has taken over coaching duties.

The Elks will once again be part of the Alberta Centennial Hockey League, along with Cold Lake Packers, Bonnyville Pontiacs and Lac La Biche Clippers. There is a possibility of a fifth team, from Goodfish Lake, joining the league. The Centennial League is presently looking at a reduced schedule of 18 games, which will leave room for exhibition games with other senior teams in the area.

Anyone interested in becoming part of the 1989-90 Elks Hockey organization is asked to phone Victor Stepa at 724-3926 or Tim Kubista at 724-3640.

Ready for renovations?

By Samia Vallewand

Demand for home renovation services is expected to hit record highs this year as more homeowners choose to improve older homes rather than brave the high-priced housing market.

Canadians will spend $21 billion on renovations in 1989, improvements to older homes are, in fact, forming the bulk of many small contractors' businesses.

Whether the project's a new bathroom, a full addition or improved wiring and insulation. It is a process that requires time, money and careful planning. Budgeting for work on your home and choosing the pros to do it can be quite a challenge.

Experts agree that increasing your enjoyment of a house is a good reason to renovate. They caution against extensive projects to boost the house's value. Future profits on the resale market are too unpredictable.

Using the reference route to choose a contractor is really the best bet. Some contractors may use door-to-door sales to solicit your business. While some are reputable, others are not. Beware of those that will quote a price without seeing the job, who do not provide a written contract or who have a "special price". Always cultivate a healthy skepticism.

Just a reminder to students that our library is open during lunch hours on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. Come in and see our music cassette collection. We welcome your suggestions. Just add your request to the list at the circulation desk.

Just processed is The Jolson Story—filmed in 1946, it won many Academy Awards. The film traces the meteoric singing/performing career of a cantor's son who changed his name to Al Jolson. It features 25 songs and is a compelling tribute to a performer once hailed as 'America's greatest entertainer.' Making plans

Crop report

Weekend rain and the season's first significant snowfall brought harvest to a halt, with only a few days of combining left to go. However, prospects for a return to good weather looked good early this week, and hopefully will permit the completion of harvest within the next few days.

Only a small amount of grain is left standing at this time, and very little remains to be combined, as soon as the moisture conditions allow.

Mural information is a high priority

Providing information for viewers regarding the people and place depicted on Elk Point's 100 foot Historical Mural was defined as a high priority by those in attendance at last Wednesday's meeting of the Elk Point Historical Society. Such signage cannot wait for the completion of park development, members stressed, as visitors to Elk Point currently have no way to tell what the story shown on the giant artwork is all about.

Two means of informing the public were suggested: a brief description of the elements of each section to be put on a sign of some sort adjacent to that section, and a simple brochure with black and white outline sketches of each panel with a description beside it, to be distributed through the Tourist Information Centre and the Public Library. Signage along the highway and in town regarding the location of the library is also needed, members noted.

Relocation of the Society's archives to the Library was discussed briefly. The Library has informed the Society that they would have sufficient space to store two file cabinets of historical material for the group.

The Elk Point Chamber of Commerce, along with the Town of Elk Point, has expressed an interest in helping with plans and preparations for the 1992 Bicentennial of Fort George and Buckingham House. The Town sent along a clipping of a letter to the editor of the Edmonton Journal from former Minister of Culture Greg Stevens, which mentioned the upcoming event. The Historical Society decided to send Stevens a letter thanking him for his efforts on their behalf, and to enclose one of the Fort t-shirts and two of the pins created for the Society. A committee to start planning for the Bicentennial will be needed soon, and will be formed at a meeting in the near future.

The meeting concluded with the viewing of a video of the opening of the old Elk Point Bridge, which was developed from old movie film, 78 rpm records of speeches at the opening, and a number of still photographs. Mike O'Neill coordinated the project, which was done for the Society by Birch Hill Enterprises. The video is scheduled to be shown on our local cable channel at a later date, and a copy will later be available for viewing through the Library's video collection.

The next meeting of the Historical Society is scheduled for Thursday, October 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Library Meeting Room.

Hospital Board

Revised code accepted

A revised code of conduct for hospital board trustees was unanimously adopted by the Board of Elk Point Municipal Hospital in late September.

The text of the revised code is as follows:

1. No person shall become - or remain - a trustee when that person is in a position of actual or potential conflict of interest with the institution. Included in this category is the legal advisor to the institution, or any member of his or her firm, the institution's accountant, any employee of the institution, or any person who has a contract with the institution.

2. Any trustee having an occasional conflict of interest shall declare the details of that conflict at a Board meeting shall absent himself from that portion of the meeting during which discussion or voting affected by that conflict takes place.

3. No person shall be employed by the institution who is the spouse of a trustee.

4. Trustees shall endeavor to maintain confidentiality of information gained from or about the institution where the release of such information is likely to call into disrepute the reputation of the institution or in any way jeopardize the confidentiality of patients or personnel records of the hospital.

5. The duty of a trustee is towards the institution and not to the person or body who appointed him. Where trustees are elected, the trustee recognizes a duty not only to the electorate but to the Board as well. The trustee shall be governed by his own conscience in voting on resolutions and shall not vote upon the instruction of the appointing body or any other party.

6. Trustees shall not encourage direct communication with employees who attempt to bypass administration but shall encourage employees to utilize reporting lines within the administration to bring their concerns to the Board. Except where circumstances clearly dictate otherwise, trustees shall not initiate contact with employees without going through the administrator and in no circumstances should such contact be made without the knowledge of the Board.

7. The Board of Trustees shall not make day to day administrative decision but shall restrict itself to policy making decisions and insuring the appropriate mechanisms are in place for the carrying out of the Board's Policies.

8. The trustee shall educate himself to ask the Administrator the right question - as distinct from providing the administrative answers.

9. No trustee shall make public statements without the authorization of the Board. However, in the event that a trustee disagrees with the policy or policies of the Board and is unable to resolve such difficulty by discussion with the Board, he or she may make a public statement but only after advising the Board of his or her intention to make such a statement. Such statement should, in the event it is made, be a balanced statement and not a statement solely designed to put forward the trustee's particular point of view or enhancing the trustee's personal reputation.

10. Trustees shall acquaint themselves with the rules of procedure and the proper conduct of meetings, so that the Board decisions may be made in an efficient and expeditious manner.

11. Trustees shall acquaint themselves with the incorporating documents of the institution, by-laws, regulations, policies and organizational structure of the institution.

12. Trustees shall take part in regular continuing education programs.

13. Trustees shall take an active role in renewing and revising a mission statement for the institution.

14. Trustees shall develop an effective channel of communication with the community served by the institution, and shall not wait until a crisis develops to establish such communication.

Dance club news

By Margaret Bayduza

We're back! The Elk Point and District Ukrainian Dance Club would like to welcome all our dancers to the 1989-90 season. This year we have 22 returning dancers and 25 new dancers who have tentatively registered.

Our adult dance group has also started, but the total number of dancers won't be known until the crops are in and all the dancers can come to practice. If you are 18 or older, and are interested in learning Ukrainian Dance, you are welcome to come to practice at 7:30, Tuesday night, at the FCSS gym. Phone Nellie, 724-2446, for details.

During the summer, we competed at the Vegreville Pysanka Festival. Every group took home a medal. Group 1 won a bronze. Group 2 won a bronze in Hutzul. The seniors won a bronze with their Hopak. Jodi Vogel and Elana Drobot won a bronze with their duet. Dwayne Vogel, Sheldon Porcina and Steve Bayduza won a silver with their trio. Dwayne and Sheldon also won a gold with their duet. The total number of medals were one gold, one silver and four bronze. Congratulations to everyone!

We will be holding our annual Tea and Bake Sale on December 9. Further details are forthcoming. We will be selling pyrogies at the sale.

Our last bingo, on Sept. 22, was very successful. Thanks to all who supported us. Our next two scheduled bingos are on Wednesday, October 11 and a noon bingo on November 4. Our bingos are held at Club Bingo in St. Paul.

Our next general meeting is on October 25.

Have a great year!

Starscope

By Eileen Norby

Our October Horoscopes are Libra and Scorpio. We certainly will open the old Pandoras box of woes. Let's change that with the magical power of crystals. Throughout history, crystals and quartz were recognized for their strange powers. Quartz is a very hard mineral composed of silica. Common quartz crystal is colorless and transparent. People have crystals in their daily life. Jewelry, radio, cigarette lighter etc., etc. Your watch is calibrated by quartz. Remember Superman and the planet Krypton? YOU! The source of power comes from YOU! The crystal is the exchange of inner power. They absorb energy. Too technical? Soothsayer would use the crystal ball to peer into the future. An energy vortex is like whirlpool! It draws power with a strange magnetic force. Crystals are valuable when you meditate.

They belong in our life style today to bring peace to your soul. Use one to reshape your destiny. Crystals have the power to help. Hold one in your hand. It's mind over matter. A great rubbing stone.

Aries
Your gem is Diamond. You have your eye on a distant goal but don't dwell on it now. You don't want to get caught up in a web of misunderstanding. If your home life is in a muddle, do something about it. Now! Move slowly, no anger, haste, jealousy.

Taurus
Your gem is Pearl. Someone near you certainly has the gift of gab. You're restless and worried over a loved one. The future seems shaky. You have no patience at all. By the time this day is half over, you'll feel much better about things. Touch of woe.

Gemini
Your gem is Emerald. You did a lot of merrymaking the last two days. Go easy on the old body. It was delightful relaxing at home for a change of pace. Your job continues to take you far and wide. Your actions speak louder than words. Your flirtations, teasing nature has almost come to trouble with a capital "T".

Cancer
Your gem is Aquamarine. Decisions! Decisions! You're very edgy this week but try and be calm. Take it one day at a time. Don't plunge ahead recklessly because you'll sink in a sea of impracticalities. Focus on your loved ones. They miss your guiding.

Leo
Your gem is Turquoise. Fretting about a problem won't help. Be non-committal. Don't give out any information. Your workday begins positive! Emphasis on your finances. Don't worry, be careful! Watch that cheque book. You'll shine in October with free spirit.

Virgo
Your gem is Sapphire. Be careful of money or you'll be in a financial quicksand. Unwind this weekend.

Enough is enough. Sunshine breaks through yesturdays storm clouds.

Libra
Your gem is Peridot. The day time hours just amble along after "Saturday Night Fever". Remember that honey will go further than vinegar. Watch out for someone itching to cause a fight. Don't waste your talents on anger and hostility. Life is too short.

Scorpio
Your gem is Opal. You'll have fun tonight for a change. Your social popularity is going to Zoom! Do things in moderation. You seem to be in a great deal of pain? No time for visitors. Don't be victimized by possessiveness or jealousy. Stand tall.

Sagittarius
Your gem is Topaz. You have been so busy that you'll seek a peaceful corner even if it's bed! A financial transaction could prove profitable. Stay away from any touchy topics. Your ideas go over like a lead balloon. Totally boring.

Capricorn
Your gem is Ruby. Replace extravagant dreams with some old-fashioned elbow grease. Your mood will alter several times between today and tonight. Someone said you were arrogant! You're trying to attract attention thats all. Be receptive mate!

Aquarius
Your gem is Amethyst. Don't get into a contest of wills. News from afar may concern a proposed trip. Don't jump to any conclusions. Keep the home fires burning. Keep up the figure program. The long-distance telephone wires will sizzle soon.

Pisces
Your gem is Garnet. Be flexible about social plans tonight. Your week sent you berserk. Try to keep your feelings under control. Your Neptunian personality makes you generous. It will intensify your moods and cravings. Obey any impulses freely.

About that time, Jordan began writing fiction. After participating in several workshops in Saskatchewan, three of Jordan's stories, "Play With Me", "The Pillars Of Pelican", and "A Mountain Legend" were published in Achimoona. Small business tips

In our current age of enlightened consumers, advertising provides a major means of informing the public about your business. Too many established businesses assume that their business advertises itself. Word of mouth and coffee-shop gossip provides some limited information. What about those residents who have recently moved to the area? How about those "customers" who haven't been in your store for five years?

Regional newspapers provide an excellent means of business promotion. Advertising in the paper will ensure you inform the local market, as this is where your customers are. Television ads, by comparison, go out to over a million people in the Edmonton region. What percentage of viewers are your potential customers? With 36 channels to choose from, what are the chances anyone will see it?

Studies have proven that it takes seven repetitions before the advertising message sinks in. A lesson can be learned from television where we are bombarded by the same ads time after time. All too often newspaper ads are only inserted for one or two issues, and then withdrawn. There is no wonder that businesses complain of poor response rates, when chances are the consumer hasn't understood your message.

It is also very important to take care when designing your advertising message. Creativity is wonderful, but constantly changing the message during an ad campaign will only confuse your message. The same ad in the same section of the paper on a consistent basis will allow your message to be clearly communicated. Size is not critical, but consistency is!

There is also a multiplier effect when advertising in local papers. Printed media has the advantage of having numerous readers for the same paper. Like a magazine, newspapers tend to remain in the home or office where others have the opportunity to see your message.
